

Molly and Polly's Adventure

One day in the Arctic, twin polar bears, Molly and Polly were born.

They slept in a small snow cave and watched the Northern Lights.

They decided to find the Northern Lights. They walked fifty miles and stopped to eat some fish from a small hole and take a nap.

They traveled forty miles. They saw a walrus and were scared. Mr. Walrus said, "What are you polar bears doing?"

Polly said, “We are trying to find the Northern Lights. We love watching them from our snow cave.” Mr. Walrus said, “That sounds fun, mind if I come?”

They looked at each other and said, “Yes, you can come.”

They traveled fifty miles; there was a big hole in the ice. Mr. Walrus said, "I have a friend, her name is Mrs. Whale."

"How do we call her," asked Molly?

"You have to stomp on the ice!" said Mr. Walrus.

They all stomped on the ice. Mrs. Whale came quickly and asked, "Do you need a ride across the water?"

"Yes we do," they said.

"Then hop on," said Mrs. Whale. She took them to the other side and they thanked her.

The three walked fifty two miles, and saw an Arctic Fox. They were still for a minute, Polly said, “Hi, what is your name?”

He said, “Todd. What are your names?” They introduced themselves.

“What are you doing?” said Todd.

“We are going to find where the Northern Lights come from,” said Molly.

Todd was laughing, Mr. Walrus asked why?

Todd said, “You can’t find the Northern Lights because it is the sun reflecting off the ice.

“Oh,” they said sadly.

“Well, I guess we’ll go back home now?” said Molly.

So they traveled the one hundred ninety
two miles back home, very sadly.

Polly said, “All that walking for nothing.”

Molly said, “Not for nothing. We met new friends, Mr. Walrus, Mrs. Whale, and Todd the Arctic Fox.”

Polly said, “You are right, lets get some sleep, I am really tired.”

Molly and Polly still watch the Northern Lights from their snow cave and remember their adventure.
