

*I Wonder If She Will Love Me,
I Wonder IF She Will...*

By

Most kids go to the hospital to meet their little sisters for the first time but I am on an airplane and going far across an ocean. I am heading to Beijing, China and the trip has just begun! I wonder if she will love me, I wonder if she will...

Now we are driving in a van to our hotel. Which floor are we on?

The man says, "You are on floor seven with a great view." So we find our room and unpack. I wonder if she will love me, I wonder if she will...

Today we meet other families in the lobby. I wonder which bus is ours. Everyone is excited. We get in the bus and go to the orphanage to find my "mei mei" (little sister). I wonder if she will love me, I wonder if she will...

Here she comes. I recognize her from the pictures. Oh, she looks scared! My mom is hugging her but she looks like a rag doll. I wonder if she will love me, I wonder if she will... She says, "Jei Jei (big sister)," and races to me! I think I have a bit of my answer but I'm not sure.

So we go back to the hotel and play with my toys. Now she is doing my hair. It looks strange but we are having fun.

Today we are in Guangzhou, China to fill out paper work and visit the doctor. But it's not all work, we are having fun too! We go to the park and play on the monkey bars. Mei Mei likes the teeter totter. I wonder if she will love me, I wonder if she will...

As we walk back to the hotel, we pass many shops. I see a man painting with his hand instead of a brush. His pictures are beautiful.

We get on a big airplane and are flying back home and I get my answer. She says, "I love you Jei Jei." "YES!" I shout and jump up and down. She loves me! She really does!
